About CASA

Our Mission:
Challenging the societal acceptance of all forms of domestic violence, CASA Stands Up To Silence through advocacy, prevention, intervention and support services.

What is Domestic Violence?

Domestic violence is used for one purpose: to gain and maintain control. Through acts of verbal humiliation, intimidation, isolation, stalking, and physical harm, one person can systematically control another. For survivors, abuse is a dangerous game with impossible rules. Perpetrators of domestic violence often manipulate current or former intimate partners or other family members through learned behaviors. Verbal, physical, sexual, financial, or emotional - domestic violence is not always a singular action often it is a series of exploitative tactics that force survivors to act in undesirable ways or prevent them from doing what they want.
